A Promise of Eternal Life in Christ

What is it you would like to have most? Would it be a roof over your head or a full stomach or some luxury? Might it be Eternal Life?

Today's Gospel reading gives us hope in Eternal Life. It is the story of the Transfiguration of Jesus Christ. There Jesus is with Moses and Elijah. The scene points to the eternal Heavenly life. While Jesus tells the Apostles he will suffer and die he gives hope in this vision of him in his glory.

You might ask yourself, "do I really want to risk following Jesus? After all, I can see it is difficult." Truly, there is a cost to being a disciple of Christ. A disciple of Christ does not find much earthly glory and comfort. The life of a disciple is often more than challenging. In fact, it includes persecution. However, truly the reward is eternal life.

We earthly creatures cannot find eternal life on our own. God and everything godly must be revealed. God must reveal himself to us. While one may speculate there is something greater than me "out there" one cannot know God. God must say, "here I am." Trying to find the ultimate meaning of life and a way through it to eternity on one's own leads to emptiness.

We are blind guides of ourselves. St. Paul's understanding is that God takes hold and charge of us. It is God's grace that leads us through life. We have not earned His guidance. It is a gift. If one stands firm in faith and practice of it, one will notice God's grace working. Paul says, "He will change our lowly body to conform with his glorified body by the power that enables him also to bring all things into subjection to himself."

The promise of Eternal Life is a promise made by God. God is good to his promise. This is illustrated in the First Reading from Genesis.

God promises Abraham he will possess the promised land. God enters into a covenant with Abraham and thus the people of faith. The sign given by the illustration of a flaming torch passing between "those pieces" is this. All the biblical code language "translated" means this. God is putting himself on the line. He is committing to Abraham. God would be cut up like the animals if he ever went against his promise to Abraham! That is God's commitment to us!

Brothers and sisters, we have not yet fully arrived. We are not yet fully to the point of our salvation. Each of us is still a work in progress. It is important to know none of us may reach salvation on our own. Each of us and indeed all of us as the Church are renewed by God's grace through Jesus Christ's whole act during his earthly life. By his ministry, passion, death, resurrection, ascension to heaven and the sending of the Holy Spirit we all are led to eternal life and saved from this earthly life.

Do not give up on yourself nor on the people of God, the Church. Surly, do not give up on God. God has profoundly promised to deliver his gift of salvation and eternal life.

Solidarity With Christ and His Faith Community During Lent.
What do We Do?

Our corporate disciplines during Lent help us remain one with each other in the faith. We stand proudly together. Our Lenten practices guide us in reflection and lead us to give example of a Grace filled life. That is why we do what we do during Lent.

Fast and Abstinence
On Ash Wednesday and Good Friday.

To fast is to eat lightly. That is to eat the equivalent of one meal for the whole day.

To abstain means to refrain from something. In this case we abstain from eating meat other than fish.

Abstinence on all Fridays of Lent.

Abstaining from something.

Giving up something for Lent has been a part of Lenten practices for a longtime.

- Fast from fault finding and nagging, a critical tongue or closed mind.
- Give up impulse purchases.
- Give up an unhealthy habit, like smoking, drug addiction, pornography.
- Limit time watching T.V. or surfing the WEB.
- Give up fast food and donate the money you save.

DO Something.

Do something good that you have not been doing. Sin is also the sin of omission.

- Go to Mass in the middle of the week besides on Sunday.
- Attend the Stations of the Cross on Thursday evenings during Lent at 7:00pm.
- Read the up-coming scripture readings that are prescribed for Sunday Mass. (Listed in the Bulletin every week.)
- Volunteer at an apostolate.
- Get up early to pray.
